The result of the eligibility check will be sent to your institutional email account (if active) or to the personal email address provided on Infostud.

4. Assessment of personal knowledge

If the academic requirements are met, in order to enrol on the degree programme, candidates must also take a non-selective assessment designed to assess their individual knowledge. The degree programme assesses your personal knowledge through an individual interview or an assessment of your academic record, with particular regard to examinations in the core subject areas and a command of English at least at B2 level. This requirement is met if you hold an official CEF certificate or have acquired at least 3 CFU credits in the form of an 'English Language Proficiency' qualification. Proficiency in English is also recognised in the case of: native English-speaking students; students holding a diploma or degree awarded in English from an accredited institution in the EU/EEA/Schengen area or in Australia, Canada, New Zealand, the United Kingdom and the United States; students holding an International Baccalaureate (IB), GCSE or equivalent diplomas/certificates.

Students who have obtained a first-level degree in classes 17 and 28 (pursuant to Ministerial Decree 509/99) and L-18 and L-33 (pursuant to Ministerial Decree 270/04 and subsequent amendments and additions) are exempt from taking the personal knowledge test.

Graduates from other degree classes who have achieved a final degree mark of at least 90/110 are also exempt from taking the personal knowledge assessment test.

If the required academic criteria are not met, the missing credits may be obtained by enrolling on courses offered at Sapienza as single examinations, in accordance with the procedures and arrangements set out in Article 26 of the University Regulations and the relevant regulations in force (<https://www.uniroma1.it/en/content/single-examinations>). It is also possible to enrol on courses as single examinations in order to sit, prior to enrolment and during the academic year preceding enrolment, up to a maximum of two exams for the Master's degree programme, in accordance with the conditions and procedures established by the University (<https://www.uniroma1.it/en/content/single-examinations>).
